Prime Minister's Message

As the government, we laid out an ambitious plan to deliver positive results to Canadians in the Speech from the Throne and the ministerial mandate letters. Over the past months, we promised you leadership that will bring real change in both the things we do and the way we do them. As Canadians, you rightly expect us to fulfill our promises. I am writing to you today to reaffirm my commitment to spend the next four years working hard to do just that.

Delivering on these commitments requires performance measurement, solid empirical evidence, and more open collaboration with our partners and Canadians. Transparent public reporting helps us stay focused on our priorities and on the things that matter most to Canadians. It is also an essential part of a healthy democracy because it allows Canadians to see, for themselves, how the Government is doing.

That is why I will work with the President of the Treasury Board to develop a new, simplified, and more effective reporting process for Parliamentarians – and all Canadians – to monitor our progress.

This 2016-17 Report on Plans and Priorities (RPP) of the Privy Council Office (PCO) provides information on how the department will support the Government's agenda over the coming year. I am fully confident in the ability of PCO to support both myself and Cabinet. However, given our commitment to communicating clearly with Canadians, this year's RPP will be the final one using the existing reporting framework.

As the Prime Minister, I expect you to hold our government accountable for delivering on our promises. Our new reporting mechanism will allow you to do just that – our reports to Parliament will be more transparent, easier to read, and will focus on how we are using our resources to fulfill our commitments to Canadians.

Last fall, we committed to set a higher bar for openness and transparency. Government and its information must be open by default, so that Canadians can make sure the Government remains focused on the people it was created to serve: you. But in order for you to put trust in your government, you need a government that will put trust in you.

Part of this reporting includes acknowledging when things are not going as anticipated and explaining to Canadians how we will improve. We will be a government that listens to Canadians, evaluates our results, and makes changes when necessary. We can only deliver outstanding results for Canadians if we are willing to try new things and learn from these experiences.

As a country, we are faced with enormous challenges and opportunities. We were elected on a platform that believes that government, in partnership with others, can make a real difference. I am committed to leading an open and honest government that is accountable to Canadians, lives up to the highest ethical standards, brings our country together, and uses the utmost care in the handling of public funds.

Reporting to Parliament and to Canadians in a simple and transparent way will help us stay focused on the people we were elected to represent. By taking these meaningful steps, we will deliver on our priority to strengthen and grow the middle class in an inclusive and sustainable way.

Departmental spending in 2014-15 was $3.2 million lower than in 2013-14 (from $126.4 million to $123.2 million), which is explained in part by:

- A decrease in spending due to cumulative reductions to PCO's budget associated with various government-wide initiatives such as the Deficit Reduction Action Plan;
- A reduction in salary-related costs such as severance and contributions to employee benefit plans;
- A decrease in spending within the offices of the portfolio ministers, mostly related to the Office of the Leader of the Government in the Senate (LGS); and
- A reduction in payout costs as a result of winding down activities related to the workforce adjustment measures announced in Budget 2012.

The decrease in spending was partially offset by:

- A one-time transition payment to implement salary payment in arrears, which is a government-wide initiative; and

- The creation of the Central Innovation Hub, which supports departments and agencies in adopting new tools and nimble approaches to policy and program challenges.

PCO anticipates that its departmental spending in 2015-16 will be $9.0 million higher than its 2014-15 actual spending (from $123.2 million to $132.2 million). This is mostly explained as follows:

- An increase in salary-related costs such as severance and separation pay and increases to contributions to employee benefit plans;
- Similar to 2014-15, PCO continued to invest in security enhancement initiatives and government-wide transformation changes such as the Workplace 2.0 initiative;
- In 2015-16, PCO had to adjust to new priorities of a new government; and
- There is also an increase in spending related to the Central Innovation Hub because it had a full year of operation.

The increase in spending is partially offset by a decrease in spending in 2015-16 compared to 2014-15 for:

- The one-time transition payment to implement the salary payment in arrears, which was a government-wide initiative;
- The decrease in spending for the Prime Minister's Office and portfolio ministers as a result of the election period; and
- Lower workforce adjustment costs due to the delay in transferring files to Miramichi.

Departmental Spending Trend

As illustrated in the graph above, between 2015–16 and 2018–19, departmental planned spending is currently expected to decrease by $10.8 million (from $132.2 million to $121.3 million). This decrease is mostly explained by:

- The sunsetting of funds related to the Canadian Secretariat to the Canada-U.S. Regulatory Cooperation Council, the Beyond the Border Action Plan, the Office of the Special Advisor on Human Smuggling and Illegal Migration and the coordination of a government-wide communications approach;
- Decreased spending in key multi-dependency, government-wide IT/IM and accommodation initiatives, such as Workplace 2.0;
- Decreased spending for salary-related costs such as severance and separation pay; and
- The transfer of resources associated with the consolidation of pay services to the Public Service Pay Centre in Miramichi.

These decreases are partially offset by:

- An increase in spending for the offices of the Prime Minister and portfolio ministers in 2016-17 which represents a full year of spending for those offices, whereas spending in 2015-16 was reduced due to the election period;
- Funding increase to support the new Senate appointment process; and
- More spending related to contributions to employee benefit plans.

Section III: Supplementary Information

Future-oriented Condensed Statement of Operations

The Future-oriented Condensed Statement of Operations provides a general overview of PCO's operations. The forecast of financial information on expenses and revenues is prepared on an accrual accounting basis to strengthen accountability and to improve transparency and financial management.

Because the Future-oriented Condensed Statement of Operations is prepared on an accrual accounting basis, and the forecast and planned spending amounts presented in other sections of the Report on Plans and Priorities are prepared on an expenditure basis, amounts may differ.

A more detailed Future-oriented Statement of Operations and associated notes, including a reconciliation of the net cost of operations to the requested authorities, are available on PCO's website.^v

Future-oriented Condensed Statement of Operations For the Year Ended March 31 (dollars)

Financial Information	2015–16 Forecast Results	2016–17 Planned Results	Difference (2016–17 Planned Results minus 2015–16 Forecast Results)
Total expenses	149,947,894	147,406,319	(2,541,575)
Total revenues	90,736	87,323	(3,413)
Net cost of operations before government funding and transfers	149,857,158	147,318,996	(2,538,162)

The net cost of operations, before government funding and transfers, for the 2016–17 Planned Results is expected to decrease by $2,538,162 when compared to the net cost of operations, before government funding and transfers, for the 2015–16 Forecast Results. This decrease is mostly explained by:

- A decrease in spending for salary-related costs such as severance and separation pay;
- The sunsetting of funds related to the coordination of a government-wide communications approach and a decrease in funding for Canada's Migrant Smuggling Prevention Strategy;
- A reduction in services provided without charge (e.g. the employer's contribution to the health and dental insurance plans, the costs for accommodation); and

- A decrease due to the implementation of various government-wide initiatives, including the continued consolidation of pay services, the implementation of the Canada School of Public Service's (CSPS) new business model and the 2016 Census of Population.

These decreases are partially offset by:

- The creation of a new, non-partisan, merit-based Senate appointment process;
- A net change in the non-appropriated accounts such as provision of severance pay, the provision of vacation pay, amortization of capital assets and amortization of prepaid expenses;
- Spending related to contributions to employee benefit plans; and
- Fewer reallocations from expenses to capital assets as work-in-progress related to informatics projects.

Appendix: Definitions

Appropriation: Any authority of Parliament to pay money out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

budgetary expenditures: Operating and capital expenditures; transfer payments to other levels of government, organizations or individuals; and payments to Crown corporations.

Departmental Performance Report: Reports on an appropriated organization's actual accomplishments against the plans, priorities and expected results set out in the corresponding Reports on Plans and Priorities. These reports are tabled in Parliament in the fall.

full-time equivalent: A measure of the extent to which an employee represents a full person-year charge against a departmental budget. Full-time equivalents are calculated as a ratio of assigned hours of work to scheduled hours of work. Scheduled hours of work are set out in collective agreements.

Government of Canada outcomes: A set of 16 high-level objectives defined for the government as a whole, grouped in four spending areas: economic affairs, social affairs, international affairs and government affairs.

Management, Resources and Results Structure: A comprehensive framework that consists of an organization's inventory of programs, resources, results, performance indicators and governance information. Programs and results are depicted in their hierarchical relationship to each other and to the Strategic Outcome(s) to which they contribute. The Management, Resources and Results Structure is developed from the Program Alignment Architecture.

non-budgetary expenditures: Net outlays and receipts related to loans, investments and advances, which change the composition of the financial assets of the Government of Canada.

performance indicator: A qualitative or quantitative means of measuring an output or outcome, with the intention of gauging the performance of an organization, program, policy or initiative respecting expected results.

performance reporting: The process of communicating evidence-based performance information. Performance reporting supports decision making, accountability and transparency.

planned spending: For Reports on Plans and Priorities (RPPs) and Departmental Performance Reports (DPRs), planned spending refers to those amounts that receive Treasury Board approval by February 1. Therefore, planned spending may include amounts incremental to planned expenditures presented in the Main Estimates.

A department is expected to be aware of the authorities that it has sought and received. The determination of planned spending is a departmental responsibility, and departments must be able to defend the expenditure and accrual numbers presented in their RPPs and DPRs.

plans: The articulation of strategic choices, which provides information on how an organization intends to achieve its priorities and associated results. Generally a plan will explain the logic behind the strategies chosen and tend to focus on actions that lead up to the expected result.
